Juror Statement

While judging this show I was inspired by the creative energy, the many points of view, creative techniques, insightful observations and skill level of the artists. There are some truly exceptional paintings here. There were more award worthy paintings than awards, making my decisions exciting but also difficult.

As a judge, the first thing I look for is a painting that is compelling, one that draws me in. It may be a powerful design, a quiet voice, or sheer observation of beauty. Sometimes it's a sense of place, an emotion, or a unique vision. Sometimes it's an intriguing narrative. In other words, a strong painting has a point of view. Technical accomplishment is important but not the sole goal. It provides the language to tell the story, but it is not the story.

The Miami Watercolor Society should be very proud of itself. Thank you to everyone who participated and thank you for having me as your judge.

Happy Painting!
